

Eighth Pacific Northwest Test Workshop

aka: BAST99

Bodega Bay, California, Feb 23 -26, 1999
CALL FOR PARTICIPATION

The 8th annual BAST workshop, co-sponsored by the Stanford University Center for Reliable Computing (CRC) and the IEEE Computer Society Test Technology Technical Committee (TTTC)*, will be held Feb 23 -26, 1999, in Bodega Bay, California. BAST is an informal workshop whose objective is to bring together engineers and scientists from the San Francisco bay area environs to discuss current work on testing electronic circuits.

Attendance at BAST is restricted to 50 persons from the Pacific Northwest region in order to facilitate better sharing of ideas. This workshop is unique in that attendee-only reservations are not available; everyone attending is expected to stay at the workshop for its duration, and to participate. Interaction is encouraged during every presentation, and during breaks and social events. A program and report from BAST98 is available from the web site at the bottom of this page.

Interested persons are invited to submit a proposal containing a brief abstract of what they would like to present. Possible suggestions include:

- System on a chip test methodology
- Impact of deep sub-micron test on ATE
- Design for debug and testability
- Fault coverage and fault models
- Test Research
- Online Test
- Mixed signal testing
- Standardized test software
- Verification
- Embedded memory test
- Future Test Issues

This is not an exclusive list; all interesting abstracts related to test are invited for submission (see reverse side for application information). If you are interested in attending, please send a proposal for participation by November 13, 1998 to:
